This is the second comic book Jack Kirby did for DC after he left Marvel in 1970. Jimmy Olsen was the first book in the Fourth World series that Kirby did that also included The New Gods, The Forever People and Mr. Miracle.

A full page ad for all 3 of these titles is included in this issue along with a 1 page essay by Jack Kirby. All of these titles were money losers and were cancelled inside 18th months. However the Fourth World was brought back now and again in later years with other writers and artists. This issue #134 contains the first appearance (1 panel on a TV monitor) of Darkseid, the primary villain in the Fourth World series.

Veteran DC artist Al Plastino inked or redrew several Superman heads to keep Superman in the familar "house style" that DC readers were accustomed to.

All of these Edgewater Road comic books are from my personal collection. I bought them new at a few stores in my hometown of Savannah, Georgia. After 1965, I very rarely read a comic more than once. Many of the 1970s books have not been read at all. They have been stored in an air conditioned home since they were bought and more importantly, they have all been kept in Mylar Snugs since 1981 and I can prove it. Consequently, many of these books have supernatural cover gloss. You can always buy a comic book with no history or lineage and no knowledge of how it was stored and preserved. Instead, here is a rare chance to not only buy books from a pedigree collection, but to buy them directly from the original owner. When you buy one of my comic books it's not a book that a bunch of other unknown people have had their hands on. You will be only the second person in the world to own the book.
